Anything is possible Michael. I know that a 10 page document of this nature would have made me nervous. I would have asked a confidant for their opinion before signing it.

They are very deceptive and have made a practice of entering into agreements with people that they have no intention of honoring.

I [REDACTED]

I wouldn't put anything past them, including forgery.

Do you have any recollection at all of signing a document at the top of blank page that could have been a part of something else? I'm wondering if you maybe signed something in another context and they slid it into this "agreement"...

Hi Michael,

I have never seen this document before. I keep records of everything and certainly would have had a copy of a 10 page agreement.

I can't say for certain if that's my signature, but I can tell you I was not given a 10 page arbitration agreement.

Also, the counter signature is not a familiar name.

Best,

Christine

Per my previous email, I just received the alleged arbitration agreement - - it's attached to this message. Please take a look and let me know (a) whether you've ever seen this document before, and (b) if that's your signature on the last page. If there's anything fishy with the agreement, let me know right away.

Feel free to give me a call to discuss. I'm in meetings most of the day tomorrow but if I miss your call I'll get back to you as soon as I can.

Thanks.

Sincerely,

Michael R. Minkoff, Esq.
